WCEA Accreditation Overview

The Western Catholic Educational Association (WCEA) supports and accredits Catholic schools through a process of reflection, evaluation, and continuous improvement. Accreditation helps a school assess how faithfully it lives its Catholic mission, the quality of its educational program, and its ability to serve students and sustain its work.

As part of the process, the school community conducts a self-study, reviewing evidence, recognizing strengths, and identifying areas for growth. A visiting team of educators then reviews the self-study, visits classrooms, and speaks with members of the community. The team's feedback helps guide the school's ongoing improvement. At its heart, accreditation is an opportunity for the school community to renew its commitment to forming students in faith, knowledge, and service.
